SALTER, CANTICLES AND LITANY. ILLUMINATED
MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM; WELL WRITTEN IN A VERY GOOD LITURGICAL HAND, 173 LEAVES; ELEVEN EXTREMELY FINE
HISTORIATED INITIALS, blind stamped purple morocco,
($7\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.) N. FRENCH. EARLY XIV CENT.

 The eleven large historiated initials are executed in an exceptionally good style on grounds of burnished gold. The subjects are as follows:

(1) Folio 1. Psalm 1. (Beatus vir.) Jesse tree. David in top left-hand corner. (Plate I).

LOT 1—continued.

(2) Folio 23B. Psalm 27. (Dominus illuminatio mea). A boy with hockey stick standing between two saints, one of whom anoints him.

(3) Folio 38B. Psalm 39. (Dixi, custodiam vias meas). A King (? David) kneeling before the Almighty points to his lips.

(4) Folio 51B. Psalm 52. (Quid gloriaris in malicia). A man with sword attacking the recumbent figure of a man in armour.

(5) Folio 52. Psalm 53. (Dixit insipiens in corde suo). King and Fool.

(6) Folio 65B. Psalm 69. (Salvum me fac). A naked man in the jaws of a whale. The Almighty above.

(7) Folio 83B. Psalm 81. (Exultate Deo). Jacob wrestling with the angel.

(8) Folio 100B. Psalm 96. (Cantate Domino canticum novum). Three monks singing.

(9) Folio 118. Psalm 110. (Dixit Dominus Domino meo). The Trinity. (Plate II).

(10) Folio 152. "O intemerata virgo." The Virgin and a saint.

(11) Folio 172. "Ave gloriosa virginum regina." The Virgin crowned seated with the Almighty.

All the pages with historiated initials are decorated with bar borders and beautifully executed drolleries, nondescripts, birds, etc. A characteristic of the manuscript is the remarkable series of birds which occur in the marginal decoration, including a woodcock, bullfinch, owl, duck, stork, pigeon, gull, wagtail, thrush, swan, parrot, heron and others. The illuminated initials at the beginning of each psalm have bar decoration generally with grotesques or nondescripts, or figures of birds or animals. Decorative line-fillings throughout in blue and burnished gold.

The marginal decoration has in some cases been a little cut into but otherwise the general condition of the manuscript and particularly of the large historiated initials is good.

At folio 118A two kneeling figures support a shield or a lion rampant gules. This shield, which is repeated on folios 51B and 52A, appears to be contemporary, or nearly so, and no doubt denotes an early owner, the manuscript being of a kind likely to have been executed for a private individual. The arms in question were borne by a number of well-known families in England and Wales and on the Continent, and there is in the present case no evidence for identification. The draughtsmanship of the lion is particularly distinguished and might form a model of the best period of heraldic art.

Seven further coats have been painted, apparently by the same hand, in the lower corners of the first four leaves (somewhat cut into). Those on either side of folio 1 have been carefully erased: the others represent the following celebrated feudal names:—

1. Gu. 3 chevronels or. Clare.
2. Arg. a lion rampant gu. within a bordure sa. bezanté. Cornwall.
3. Gu. a fess between six cross-crosslets or. Beauchamp.
4. Quarterly arg. and gu. a bendlet sa. Widdrington (or possibly intended for Lacy).
5. Az. 3 bars or, on a chief of the first two pallets between as many base esquires of the second, over all an inescutcheon arg. Mortimer.

The relation of these coats to the manuscript and to one another has not yet been satisfactorily determined and offers very interesting material for research.

(See Plates I and II).

AUGUSTINE (ST.) DE CIVITATE DEI. ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPT ON VELLUM, BEAUTIFULLY WRITTEN IN A VERY FINE HUMANISTIC HAND OF ROMAN TYPE (two or possibly three scribes), long lines, 40 lines to a page, 322 leaves (10 leaves Table + 312 leaves Text); ORIGINAL BINDING of brown leather over wooden boards, line tooled in blind and stamped with interlaced work to a panel design; in a green morocco case by Rivière folio (15 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. by 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.) ITALY [FLORENCE], c. 1470

 The first page of text is decorated with a large and very finely executed historiated initial (2 $\frac{7}{8}$ in. by 2 $\frac{11}{16}$ in.) containing a miniature of S. Augustine holding a book in front of him. The corners are filled in with "white vine" ornament.

This page is enclosed within a magnificent "white vine" border introducing cherubs blowing trumpets and playing, birds, animals and insects, and interlaced work of burnished gold. In the top border is a small round miniature of a monk with halo, in the left border another of a woman with halo, and in the bottom border is a coat-of-arms within a wreath; paly of six argent and azure, on a chief argent a lion passant azure; a label with motto VIDET DEUS. (Plate III).

The verso of the same leaf is enclosed within a similar very fine "white vine" border and a magnificent initial G of burnished gold (4 in. by 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.) containing a beautifully painted miniature of the saint seated at a desk writing his book and looking up at a view of Florence supported by clouds, the corners and the right side of the initial filled in with "white vine" ornament. The bottom border is composed of a panel landscape with a woman grinding a mill in the fore-ground and two scrolls above lettered Q.V.D.O.V.S.N.C. (Plate IV).

Each of the remaining twenty-one books has a large and finely executed initial in burnished gold on a "white vine" ground. The headings at the beginning of each book are in red capitals; initials at the beginning of each chapter in blue.

Small wormholes through a few leaves at beginning and end. Generally in exceptionally fine condition with wide margins.

LOT 2—continued.

A SPLENDID MANUSCRIPT OF THE DE CIVITATE DEI WRITTEN IN A BEAUTIFUL SCRIPT AND WITH MAGNIFICENT "WHITE VINE" BORDERS. THE 15TH CENTURY VIEW OF FLORENCE ON THE VERSO OF FOLIO 11 IS OF GREAT INTEREST AND RARITY. The Cathedral is shown with Brunelleschi's dome surmounted by the lantern completed in 1462 and having circular windows in the dome itself; around it rise towers doubtless intended for the Campanile, the Signoria and the Badia. The view, however, is necessarily compressed and conventionalized beyond the point of detailed accuracy.

Count A. de Laborde (Les Manuscrits à peintures de la Cité de Dieu, Paris, 1909) does not record any other manuscript containing a view of Florence. He notes two of about this period containing views of Rome; one of 1456 (Laborde 43, Plate XXXIV), signed by Johann Gobel of Linz, and one of 1459 (Laborde 44, Plate XXXV), signed by Giacomo da Fabriano.

The medicinal springs of Puteoli, the modern Pozzuoli, near Naples, were celebrated both in Roman times and in the middle ages; and a respectable literature, in prose and verse, grew up around them from an early date. Some of the treatises current in manuscript were collected and published at Venice in 1553, at Naples in 1593, and elsewhere. These printed collections are now sufficiently uncommon, while the original manuscript versions are almost non-existent. One somewhat similar to the present, but describing only eighteen baths against thirty-five and having miniatures of very inferior quality, was lent by the Biblioteca Angelica at Rome to the Esposizione di Storia della Medicina at Turin in 1898 and is described by Sig. P. Giacosa (Magistri Salernitani nondum editi, 1901, pt. II, p. 397, and plates 28-33). The text of the Angelica manuscript follows generally the version formerly attributed to Alcadinus, now to Pietro da Eboli; that of the manuscript now offered follows partly Pietro and partly Eustachius. In the stanza describing the "sun and moon" bath (no. 23, above) both manuscripts exhibit a third text of unknown authorship.

It need hardly be added that ALL MEDICAL MANUSCRIPTS WITH MINIATURES OF SO EARLY A DATE ARE EXCEEDINGLY RARE.

The extremely interesting series of thirty-five full-page miniatures represent the baths as either an open shed-like structure of domed masonry or a cave on the sea shore with the figures of naked men and women bathing. In several of the earlier miniatures the bathers are shown in the upper section of the miniature resting in tents or sleeping after their bath. Several of the miniatures have rocky mountainous backgrounds with trees and sometimes figures of travellers, etc. On a fly-leaf is an alphabetical table of diseases dealt with in the manuscript in a contemporary hand headed : "Incipit tabula super balneis composita per magistrum Raynaldum de villa nova."

A small piece has been cut from folio 1 removing the initial and restored at a later date; the miniature on folio 9 is somewhat rubbed, and two or three of the other miniatures are slightly rubbed. Otherwise the general condition of the manuscript is very good.

Note of ownership by the Duca di Cassano Serra dated 4th September, 1803. Note on fly-leaf by Francesco Daniele.

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT EARLY MEDICAL MANUSCRIPTS THAT HAS COME INTO THE MARKET FOR MANY YEARS. The texts which it preserves are evidently of still earlier date and possess peculiar interest as an exposition of practical therapeutics according to the School of Salerno at an obscure period in the history of mediæval medicine.
